

both establishing a disability and identifying possible accommodations. A combination of the results of formal evaluation procedures, clinical na